A Complete Fizzle

NEW YORK, Jan 8—The proposed labor demonstration in Union Square this morning proved a complete failure. Not more than 300 men appeared about the square and they were [illegible] and somewhat heavy rain prevailing the men soon scattered.

Terrible Tale from a Poor House

WASHINGTON, Jan 8—Much excitement was created here by the report of the Grand Jury [illegible] unfortunate being inmates [illegible] keeper and [illegible]

Rumored Irregularity in the Accounts of a Lowell Cashier

LOWELL, Jan 8—There are rumors that J Bartrick, cashier of the Wamesit National Bank, has a discrepancy of over $40,000 in his accounts.

The Sheriff of New York County Punished for Allowing Genet to Escape.

NEW YORK, Jan 9—Ex-Sheriff Brennan has been sentenced to thirty days imprisonment in the jail for contempt of Court in allowing Genet to escape.

Purchase of a News Franchise

ST LOUIS, Jan 9—The proprietors of the Globe newspaper have purchased the expiring State Zeitung in order to become possessed of its franchise in the Western Press Association and thus obtain the Associated Press news. The abandonment of the American Press Association practically extinguishes the latter in the West.

WASHINGTON CITY.

The Chief Justiceship—Geo H. Williams Withdraws from His Contest with the Senate, and Writes an Open Letter to the President.

WASHINGTON, Jan 8—The message of the President to the Senate withdrawing the nomination of George H Williams as Chief Justice states that it is done at his own request. Williams remains in office as Attorney General and the nomination of Col Bristow for that position is in another brief message consequently withdrawn.

Following is the letter of Attorney General Williams requesting the withdrawal of his nomination:

WASHINGTON, Jan 7th 1874

To the President—SIR: You were kind enough without my solicitation or any knowledge on my part that you contemplated such a thing, to nominate me for Chief Justice of the Supreme Court of the United States. Since that time the flood gates of calumny in all directions have been opened upon me, my abilities have been disparaged, my integrity brought in question, and as it seems to me that the stage of public opinion adverse to my appointment has been reached which might hereafter embarrass your administration and perhaps impair my usefulness upon the bench, with a perfect consciousness that I have performed with clean hands and upright purpose all the duties of the various public offices to which I have been called, and trusting to time and to a just public mind [illegible] for my vindication, I respectfully ask you to withdraw my nomination.

Mr. Nesmith's Resolution of Inquiry.

WASHINGTON, Jan 8—The following resolution was offered by Nesmith and passed by the House of Representatives to-day:

Resolved, That the President of the United States be requested, if not incompatible with the public service, to furnish the House of Representatives copies of all correspondence between the different departments of the Government and the Peace Commissioners during the war with the Modoc Indians in Southern Oregon and Northern California during the years 1872 and '73, also copies of all correspondence with and orders issued to the military authorities engaged in such war up to the period of the removal of the Modoc Indians from the States of Oregon and California.

It is expected this resolution will lead to the exposure of numerous schemes of speculation on the Pacific coast.

The Appropriation Committee recommend the following appropriation for fortifications for the fort at Fort Point entrance to San Francisco harbor. The original estimate of $50,000 was reduced by the Department to $30,000. For Alcatraz Island $20,000 for torpedo and harbor defenses, and for preservation of the same $170,000, reduced from original estimate of $300,000. For contingencies to fortifications $70,000, reduced from $100,000. For surveys and reconnoisances of military divisions and departments $50,000, reduced from the original estimate of $75,000. For continuing explorations and surveys of the Territories of the United States $20,000, reduced from the original estimate of $1[illegible],000. No appropriations are recommended by the bill for the fortifications at Lime Point at the entrance to the harbor of San Francisco.

In the Senate Sargent presented a petition from the Woman's Suffrage Association of California asking for the adoption of an amendment to the Constitution of the United States declaring that the right to hold office shall not be denied on account of sex.

The Commissioner of the General Land Office has decided in the case of the application of the Segregated Belcher Mining Co for a patent for their claim on Comstock lode to reject the application for the reason that they did not make a survey showing the exterior boundaries of their claim and did not furnish proof that they had recorded their title for the premises claimed, and ruled that the Leviathan company of San Francisco has asserted a good adverse claim and that it would have been if the Segregated Belcher company had made out a good application.

The Board of Inquiry to ascertain the cause of the sinking of the steamer Saginaw, is in session at the Navy Department.

The House Committee on Appropriations have cut down their estimates from the sum of $[illegible],600,000 to about $1,000,000.

"And He Went Out and Hanged Himself."

WASHINGTON, Jan 8—The body of William Osborne, late Superintendent of the Washington Board of Public Works and who has been missing since December 19th, was found hanging to a tree near the city yesterday.

Death of Mr. Creswell's Postal Telegraph Scheme.

WASHINGTON, Jan 8—Creswell's Government savings bank scheme is considered dead in the House, even if the present Postal Committee's majority against it could be reversed. Since President Orton's recent review of Creswell's report in favor of postal telegraph the latter scheme hardly attracts attention in Congress.

VERSAILLES, Jan 9—The Assembly has resumed its sittings. A motion to postpone [illegible] the nomination of Mayors [illegible] was carried against the Government by a majority of 11 votes.

Vigorous Measures for the Suppression of Carlism.

MADRID, Jan 9—A decree has been issued calling out the entire reserve of [illegible] to suppress the Carlists. The opposition journals have been permitted to resume publication on certain conditions.

The Rev Mr. Hepworth got far beyond his tether when he undertook to explain at a Cuban meeting last week how disputes should be settled between nations. "We have made our first demand upon Spain," he said, "the second should be sent not by telegraph nor [illegible] but [illegible] shell." The belligerent [illegible] would have work enough on his hands if [illegible] were the doctrine on which his people acted. Encouraged by the applause which this foolish sentiment excited Mr Hepworth went on to still greater folly. We [illegible] from the Tribune report:

Mr Hepworth—For five years these people have struggled faithfully, and I believe that the American people have said to them all through [illegible] Count on us every time, and I hope that at length this voice of sympathy [illegible] determination to help the suffering [illegible] Washington will such force that [illegible] Spain shall speak. Vehement cheering.

A Voice—Has not Fish [illegible] Spanish gold for Cuban blood? [Applause.]

Mr Hepworth—I hope [illegible] but I fear it [illegible] that [illegible] cause a [illegible] understood that an influential member [illegible] family [illegible] where it will do the most [illegible] Applause.

On the very day the Cuban [illegible] New York were indulging in [illegible] bribery and bombshell [illegible] towed out of the port of Havana [illegible] escort of a Spanish man-of-war to be delivered up to the authorities of the United States, and orders had been given by the Spanish captain general for the delivery of the [illegible] prisoners to our naval officers now in the harbor of Santiago. SAN FRANCISCO, Jan 9—The Democratic State Convention of New Hampshire to-day nominated J A Weston for Governor, denounced the present Administration roundly, called for a repeal of the salary act, denounced all kinds of monopolies, declared in favor of State rights, offered adherence to the Baltimore platform of 1872 and adjourned sine die.

Last night a gang of fifteen or twenty hoodlums on Polk street dragged a woman out of her house into a vacant lot and attempted to violate her person. Her cries attracted the attention of two citizens, Judge Darwin and H Crittenden, who went to her rescue armed with pistols. A special officer also interfered, but the scoundrels set upon and beat him almost senseless, and it was not until a posse of officers was sent from the City Hall that they were compelled to disperse. Three of the gang—Frank Dougherty, John Carroll and Richard Gordon—were arrested and the officers are hunting up the rest. They did not accomplish their purpose with the woman.

SACRAMENTO, Jan 9—The Board of Education at their meeting last night disapproved of the action of Superintendent Henkson in suspending McDonald, principal of the Grammar school, maintaining that McDonald had obeyed the Board in not expelling colored children. A resolution to reinstate McDonald was carried almost unanimously.

Last night Pat Fahey was badly cut about the head and neck with a knife by Frank VanGuelder at Washington, Yolo county. It appears that Fahey and a party of young men assembled at VanGuelder's house and serenaded VanGuelder's sister, who had just been married. They were liberally treated at a saloon and again returned to the house and renewed their discordant music. VanGuelder requested them to leave, and hot words ensued between him and Fahey, who finally knocked VanGuelder down. The latter jumped up and attacked Fahey with a knife, inflicting bad but not dangerous cuts.

CIVIL GOVERNMENT

AN ESSAY READ BEFORE THE STATE TEACHERS' INSTITUTE AT SALEM BY MISS [illegible]

I think no study more directly commends itself as worthy a place in our common schools curriculum than that of civil government. Yet perhaps no study is more universally neglected than this, and hundreds of [illegible] leave our common schools totally ignorant of one of the most essential studies calculated to make them useful and intelligent citizens.

Our late struggle taught the [illegible] on this vital [illegible]. Men who never heard of the science of government and knew nothing of the [illegible] to [illegible] whom [illegible] blindly [illegible] was their ignorance punished.

Civil government acquaints the pupil with the world with which he must deal. Without a definite knowledge of [illegible] of the material out of which to construct the edifice of substantial ideas that shall be to him a shelter through the storms of political campaigns. With this knowledge he is prepared to weigh and properly estimate the statements so determinedly presented by political organs. He learns to compare and with the all-sided developments this study may give the highest aim of instruction is attained. It does not address itself to memory alone but to all the faculties and is pre-eminently a [illegible] study. It creates the love of [illegible] and the teacher will not be obliged to often violate the Pestalozzian rule by telling the pupil what he can ascertain himself. It creates [illegible] for who can closely pursue the glorious history of his country, study its rules of action and recognize the eternal principles of right that guide its onward course and not feel to love his glorious country?

It creates the sense of personal responsibility, by making the pupil feel that he is a vital part of his country, that all her needs of here is of personal interest to him, and that he is doing something that will materially affect him.

No study affords comparable opportunities for [illegible]. A scholar cannot go far without feeling an absorbing interest in the biography, so romantic and heroic, of the great men who have stood in the van during our ninety years of national existence. Lives of great men all remind us we can make our lives sublime. Some of these men stand as models of upright character. Washington, unmoved in the path of rectitude when betrayed by friends or attacked by jealous rivals. Lincoln, preparing by years of honest purpose to bravely strike the shackles from four millions of slaves, are men whose brilliant virtues have so far eclipsed their few faults that they have passed into history as standards of moral perfection.

The teacher will tell the diffident boy of Webster's boyish bashfulness. The struggling son of poverty will be strengthened by the story of Franklin's unaided victories. The brave deeds of Putnam will inspire every boy with courage in the hours that try men's souls. Others again stand as lurid lights, houses warning of danger and repulsing reproach. Arnold stained with revenge, cupidity and treason; Burr, talented and treacherous, brilliant and bitter, winning all but to wound; Lee and Davis are marked as men who injured their country with perverted talents. These will seem by the clear true eye of the youthful mind to stand forever as guiding stars or warning signals. The teacher will not allow these golden opportunities for sowing the seeds of worthy manhood and instilling the germs of proper views and ambitions to pass unimproved. Scholars are universally and immediately interested, and the lessons on morals drop in so naturally indeed occur to him alone that they are robbed of the dryness they sometimes have for him, and take deeper root than we know.

By interesting the pupil in these subjects you turn his mind to useful literature. He will see that life is real, that truth is stranger than fiction, and the pages of weak novels will not tempt him to turn from such tales as were furnished by Mad Anthony and Ethan Allen. The Mysteries of the Haunted House will attract far less than the humble home that sheltered Jackson and Franklin, the elegant mansion at Monticello adorned by the taste of Jefferson, or that [illegible] at Mount Vernon, so simple yet so sacred to us all. The start is made, the taste acquired, and the boy, father of the man, is on the right road. The responsibility of the teacher in this matter impresses him to do his work with enthusiasm.

I believe classes generally begin history with considerable zeal. They hang over the opening pages with delight and to the neglect of other studies sometimes diligently commit the accounts of Indian life, customs, warfare etc. So of Columbus and his story, more entrancing, truly, than romance. But a change soon comes and history recitations is the teacher's trial and pupil's dread. This is simply because the scholar has lost the zeal that makes all study pleasure. Is it always his fault? Is the love of this knowledge invariably cultivated? Are interesting anecdotes that must be omitted from the little text book, not omitted by the teacher too, and the relative [illegible] All through [illegible] may come [illegible] date or [illegible] [illegible] and many other [illegible] [illegible] It will require [illegible] and special preparation [illegible]

[illegible] Every intellectual peculiarity [illegible] mathematical [illegible] motion. At a certain point more weight may be added to the [illegible] sleeping, fraught [illegible]

Very early in life the child may be taught the principles of justice. Nature has endowed him with sufficiently clear judgment and responsibility to readily [illegible] that [illegible] the perfection of [illegible] recognition of this principle [illegible] turned to the right channel. As the twig is bent the tree's inclined.

[illegible]

This cannot of course be entered upon without proper preparation [illegible]

[illegible] embraces every [illegible] on earth [illegible]

[illegible] As the traveler [illegible] our continent is [illegible] mountain system [illegible] Sierras in its strong [illegible] by the iron horse all this [illegible] by the wonderful appliances of invention and labor so must [illegible] the teacher prepare to help the pupil over these seemingly impassable gorges and up to the apparently inaccessible heights by easy stages, ever tending directly to the desired end, but keeping him on the alert to see the lovely valley, the [illegible] river, the wild [illegible] opening, the friendly guide book to anticipate and learn the story of new wonders yet to [illegible].

The joy we feel in contemplating at leisure the beautiful picture [illegible] on memory's wall of snowy heights, of Devil's Gate [illegible] and bristling promontory and the [illegible] fantastic wonders is only equaled by the proud student who has grasped the conception of the earth [illegible] its orbit [illegible] this fundamental law of change [illegible] or wanders in delight in the beautiful haunts of poetry or grasps a principle in mathematics or philosophy [illegible] the great speeches that have marked the progress of his race through [illegible]

But the scholar must be made to feel within that there is no royal road to learning. The progress can only be made by his own application. [illegible]

But how to direct this effort that none may be unsupplied is the teacher's pleasant province.

Previous to undertaking Civil Government, as a study a good knowledge of history which it naturally follows must be attained by the student. The instructor should by oral teaching lead the pupil to perceive the reasons for the formation of the Constitution. The growth of liberty must be thoroughly learned as a preliminary.

The steady persistent growth of Freedom from the settlement of the Colonies until it culminated in the grand revolutionary struggle is both constant and natural, and should be presented in a systematic and attractive form. The scholar will notice first the spirit that drove our ancestors to the wilds of America to endure the privations and perils we can hardly imagine from the wild New England shore,

> For southward in that sunny clime,
> Where bright magnolias bloom,
> And the orange with the lime tree vies
> In shedding rare perfume.

He will notice the natural tendency of their teachings and ideas. Then can he deem it strange that from their planting such a branch should bloom as nations sway? And he will observe the early forms of government by which they were controlled that fitted them eventually for self-government.

In the Royal Government, when the King appointed the Governor and gave him his instructions and appointed the Upper House of the Legislature, while the Assembly of freeholders could but suggest [illegible] at any time be dismissed at the will of the Governor, being really destitute of freedom, the sham of forming themselves into an assembly strengthened and developed though almost imperceptibly the growth of liberty by preserving its semblance and familiarizing them with the forms of government.

In the proprietary form of government where the proprietor sustained a relation similar to that of the King in the regal government, yet a further step was taken as the owner of a tract of land could establish colonies and appoint rulers and magistrates. This form tended toward Republicanism, and in some colonies, as in Pennsylvania, where the proprietor called a [illegible] to draw up a charter of liberties in the same green country town where ninety years after the representatives of the United Colonies met to draw up and proclaim the Declaration of Independence, the progress was [illegible]

In the Charter Government liberty throve in the ratio of its increased liberality. The charter defining [illegible] given by the King was to them what a constitution is to a State Government. In the original structure no provision was made for a legislative body, but the colonists claiming all the rights of Englishmen insisted upon being represented in the Government. Consequently a legislature was allowed them, modeled after the mother country. It is true that in many cases the actual powers possessed by the people were very limited. Still the [illegible] rendered popular with election and legislative and judicial proceedings. Hence when they [illegible] the King, they were prepared to replace such portions of government as were [illegible] by that [illegible]. Consequent [illegible]—no mar by [illegible] the English ministers [illegible] the colonists to the exercise of independence they could not have chosen a better course than was pursued. Spain unprepared [illegible] and [illegible] trembles with [illegible]

Among these [illegible] were those of people [illegible] of the South [illegible] of the North, vigorous, free of thought and [illegible] republican in the true American idea were to be moulded into one nation. Out of this chaos was to come the glorious strength [illegible] of the [illegible] but peculiar development, for as in physics [illegible] but in accordance with [illegible]

[illegible]

The [illegible] through the entire [illegible] Stamp Act [illegible]

[illegible]

The [illegible]

[illegible] analysis [illegible] which will be found invaluable.

If in class in school is considered prepared to take this study in a separate branch, the teacher will find it one of the most pleasing and convenient to [illegible] The tabular view immediately takes the eye and [illegible] so easily in the few minutes devoted to oral teaching.

Let us strive earnestly to teach the best things in the best way from the best motives to the best ends.

> In the elder days of art
> Builders wrought with greatest care
> Each minute and unseen part,
> For the gods see everywhere.
>
> Let us do our work as well,
> Both the unseen and the seen;
> Make the house where gods may dwell,
> Beautiful, entire and clean.
>
> Else our lives are incomplete,
> Standing in these walls of Time,
> Broken stairways where the feet
> Stumble as they seek to climb.
>
> Build to-day then strong and sure
> With a firm and ample base;
> And ascending and secure
> Shall to-morrow find its place.
>
> Thus alone can we attain
> To those turrets where the eye
> Sees the world as one vast plain,
> And one boundless reach of sky.

The Owyhee Avalanche tells of a man named Thornton who disappeared from [illegible] under circumstances which lead to the belief that he has committed suicide. He had been partaking rather freely of snake eggs in a liquid state, which had hatched out in his boots, and, crazed by the presence of the reptiles, he procured a bottle of poison, invited his friends to attend his funeral on New Year's day, and nothing further is known of him.

The Signal says the pack train which took the Rescue mining machinery as far as the wire bridge on Salmon river, has returned to Lewiston. Some of the animals looked as though they had had a hard time of it, being scarred and stiffened up considerably. Two fine mules were killed on the trip, one at White Bird and the other on the Florence Mountain. The former, a large gray mule, slipped on the icy trail in such a manner as to break its back.

E L Jones, a native of New Haven and long time resident of Port Townsend, died suddenly of heart disease, at the latter place, last week. The Argus says: "To within an hour of his death he had been playing his violin at a young folks ball and had not yet reached his room when, like the whiff of a candle, his soul left, and the Great Seal to him was broken. His funeral, which took place yesterday, was conducted by the Masonic Order, and besides his brethren of the Mystic Craft, many others friends followed him to the grave."

The Salt Lake Herald gives an account of the kidnapping, in that place lately, by a Detroit, Michigan, detective of a man named John N Whitney. Mr Whitney is accused of obtaining money under false pretenses of parties residing in Detroit, and the object was to try him in the latter place instead of in Utah, but on reaching Chicago the friends of Whitney procured the arrest of the detective, who was placed under $5,000 bonds for kidnapping. Whitney was retained under $1,000 bonds as a witness, but forfeited his bonds and is believed to be in Canada.

The reports of the several districts in Thurston county, W. T., indicate a very healthful condition of the school service. During the past year schools have been taught in twenty of the twenty-two districts. The terms have varied from three to eight months in length, and an average attendance has been secured of over 500 scholars. The school tax for the present year aggregates $6,301 86, a large proportion of which has been paid and is available for present use. The whole number of children returned as entitled to enumeration is 867, and the amount apportioned to each is $6 56.

On board the bark Martha Rideout, which arrived at Port Townsend Jan 1st, were Mr W H Bryant and eight ship carpenters, who came up to build a three masted schooner for H B Tichnor & Co of San Francisco. The dimensions of this vessel will be 110 feet keel, 9 feet depth of hold and 30 feet beam. A peculiarity of this vessel will be her five jibs. She will be constructed at Port Blakely. Within two months after the keel of the above schooner is laid another vessel will be put on the stocks by Mr Bryant at the same place, for Messrs C I Taylor & Co of San Francisco. The dimensions of this craft will be 143 feet length of keel, 13 feet depth of hold and 34 feet beam. It is calculated that she will carry 500,000 feet of lumber. She will be rigged as a barkentine.

SATURDAY MORNING JANUARY 10 1874

JUDGE WILLIAMS' DEFEAT

The end has come and the coveted prize of the Chief Justiceship has slipped from the grasp of Attorney General Williams After a struggle unparalled in the history of nominations to the Supreme Bench Mr Williams was forced to retire from the field and relinquish all hope of a position which he almost held secure, and which might tempt the ambition of the greatest jurist of this or any other land Such a defeat under any circumstances, could not but be mortifying to a sensitive mind But the fact of this defeat is far less humiliating than the peculiar circumstances attending it These circumstances are familiar to our readers and we do not care to recount them at length here In the letter in which he requests the President to withdraw his nomination, the whole case is stated in the mildest terms possible, when Mr Williams says

> My abilities have been disparaged my integrity brought in question and as it seems to me that stage of public opinion adverse to my appointment has been reached which might hereafter embarrass your administration and perhaps impair my usefulness upon the bench

Much has been said in the Eastern journals about Judge Williams' want of ability it is true, but this was not the consideration that led to his defeat He is as able now as he was when he was a member of the Senate and occupying a leading position in that body He is as able as when he was the leading character on the American side of the Joint High Commission that made the treaty of Washington He is as able as he has been while filling the office of Attorney General, in the discharge of the complicated duties of which position his ability was not disputed, whatever other objections may have been made to his conduct His ability was equal to all these responsible positions some of them requiring the same sort of talent that is demanded for the bench—and we have not the slightest hesitancy in saying he would not be found wanting so far as mere legal ability is concerned, when brought to the test of the Chief Justiceship Judge Williams is not a very learned lawyer, especially in the esthetic learning of the profession, but with fair learning he possesses a vigorous intellect with a bent toward legal modes of reasoning, and he brings to all legal investigations in which he is engaged, a strong common sense which is to be chosen before learning, if one or the other must be dispensed with

That which produced the defeat of Williams was the charges affecting his integrity, official and political We do not say the former of these were true They were grave in character, and made with a particularity of time, place and circumstance, such as is well calculated to carry conviction, and many will believe them true They have not been met, and many will believe that, with the Chief Justiceship of the Supreme Court and the clearing of a clouded reputation as the reward of a successful refutation, a full examination would have been insisted on by Mr Williams if he had felt no misgivings as to the verdict. Be that as it may, there is no doubt about his complicity in the attempt of the Hipple ring to shield from justice the bribers and the bribed whose crimes lessened by a few hundred votes in the State the majority by which Oregon repudiated Senator Hipple at the October election The prostitution of the Attorney-General's office to the purposes of the Hipple ring, even to the extent of degrading from office a faithful officer for prosecuting the criminals, disappointed and grieved the friends of Mr Williams, excited the indignation of the people of Oregon in general, and cost Mr Williams the position of Chief Justice of the United States. Had he not interposed the authority of his office between the law and the ring—had he not removed A C Gibbs from the office of District Attorney for Oregon, he would to-day be sitting in the seat of Marshall and Chase To this he owes his fall Had there been no other objection, he might possibly have been confirmed, but had the telegrams setting forth the facts in this matter not been sent to Washington, causing the Judiciary Committee to pause, and giving time for the other charges to be brought forward, his nomination would undoubtedly have been confirmed on the 16th of December On that day the Committee made a favorable report and the confirmation would have followed immediately, when the dispatch from Oregon arrived and the Committee asked further time, and the nomination was recommitted Then came other matters from other sources and the tide of public sentiment and the tide of Senatorial opposition in and out of the Committee both ran higher and higher, till defeat, certain, inevitable stared the Attorney General in the face The rest is told in the dispatch—bitterly told in the Attorney General's letter

Mr Williams says truth when he says his appointment might embarrass the Administration and impair his own usefulness on the bench No man who is not above suspicion in every respect can fulfill the expectations of the public in the seat of the Chief Justice of the United States To be actually wanting in honesty and integrity is the only thing that can be worse for one who occupies that exalted position, than to be generally supposed to be so

The sad fall of this distinguished man has a lesson that can not be too well learned nor too much heeded Williams is not a man of bad purposes of dishonest instincts of a corrupt heart On the contrary he prefers the right to the wrong when left to choose with absolute freedom But he lacks strength of character He is as facile in his dispositions as he is sturdy in his intellect The friend he trusts, the men with whom he associates in political life can warp him and mould him to whatever shape they wish Ascertain what the last friend he has been with—and such men are always with different ones in succession—wants him to do, and you know what Williams will do if in his power This was always his weakness His enemies have sneered at and derided him for it, and his friends have bit their lips in silent and regretful acquiescence. And this characteristic has at last brought him to his present mortifying position John Hipple and the men whom John Hipple leads did not elect Williams to the Senate They were for his opponent Those who have never endorsed Hipple were they who made Williams Senator But the Hipple ring were fertile of methods to get control of a man of so fickle a character as Williams possesses and seeing he had reached a place in which he could be serviceable to them resolved to get him into their hands They succeeded and though the catastrophe was delayed some time, it has come at last as it must come sooner or later in all such cases Hipple demanded that Williams should make himself a party to offenses which a law abiding, order loving, and just people could not overlook He consented and is fallen

Not with pleasure certainly not with malice, have we written thus of Judge Williams He has distinguished himself at the National Capital beyond any other man whom Oregon or the Pacific coast has ever sent thither In the Senate he shed luster on our State, and he has had a warm place in the hearts of our people A friend and admirer of his from our youth, reluctant to believe any evil report of him although we knew his vulnerable side, it was hard for us to accept the truth when it was forced upon us by evidence that could not be controverted or explained away, and now it is with a sense of sadness and of a personal loss, that we say his defeat is a triumph of right over wrong at which all good citizens should rejoice

"RUN OFF

Pat Coakley rushes into print and says he was not run off when the U S Grand Jury was in session We are glad to know that, but he neglects to tell what important business he and others, who had been before the first Grand Jury had away just at that time While he is in the printing business, will he please state

1 Whether he is a Democrat or not

2 Whether or not he got any money of H W Scott on the late election day

3 If he got any money of said Scott, how much, and what for?

4. Did he state before the first Grand Jury that he received money from H W Scott for election purposes?

Categorical answers to the above questions respectfully requested

Durell the Louisiana Judge who settled the Warmoth Kellogg squabble by judicially kicking Warmoth out of and hoisting Kellogg into office and whose name is just about as fragrant to the political nose of the South as an overloaded swillbucket is to the sensitive nostril this man Durell is in trouble The sub-committee of the House Judiciary Committee of which we spoke a day or two since, has been taking testimony in New Orleans and there seems to be little room for doubt that he is about as corrupt a specimen of Federal Judge as ever disgraced the bench If the charges against him are sustained the Louisiana difficulty will take on another hue That is another disgraceful feature will be added while Durell's conviction and dishonor will in no wise add to or take from the present disgusting reputations of Warmoth, Kellogg, Pinchback et al. In another place will be found a Washington dispatch which alludes to the character of the disclosures before the Senate Committee

The disasters to shipping on the great lakes, in 1873, far exceed those of any former year both in number and financial loss From a tabular statement prepared by Louis Blever, of the Daily Wisconsin we learn that the total damage for the year ending Dec 31, 1873 amounted to $3 376 000 or nearly $1 000 000 more than the total losses of 1872 The number of vessels of all kinds lost or damaged is given at 1,318 In 1872 it was 715 The abridged report before us does not give an estimate of the loss of life There were several fearful calamities however, the chief of which was the foundering of the propeller Ironsides and the sinking of a large pleasure yacht in Lake Michigan

After all the Bulletin's vaporing and blustering about the feebleness of the opposition to the ring its present position must be a most delightful one That highly respectable journal has declared a dozen time since the nomination of Judge Williams as Chief Justice that there was no opposition to him except that of a few uninfluential persons at Portland and that his confirmation was certain Well his confirmation was not so very certain was it? The last city election was victory No 1 The popular repudiation of Hipple in October was No 2 This is No 3 Nos 4 and 5 are both in sight

Theodore A Wick Treasurer of Clark county Ohio, embezzled $90 000 of the public funds the indictment said Theodore fell into hands of an old fashioned jury who found him guilty on three counts and the Judge snuffed him by sentencing him to one year's imprisonment in the penitentiary at hard labor, and to pay the costs of trial and a fine of $60 000 Out out brief candle!

The longest faces we ever saw are those which the ring are exhibiting just now—those of them we mean who have not gone into their holes.

The ring organ's rooster doesn't crow to speak of What is the matter with that bird somehow or other?

THE FREEDMEN'S BUREAU

THE SECRETARY OF WAR SHOWS HOW IT HAS BEEN MANAGED BY GEN O O HOWARD AND HIS CONFRERES

WASHINGTON Dec 1.—The Secretary of War to-day sent the following communication to the House in relation to certain developments connected with the Freedmen's Bureau

WAR DEPARTMENT WASHINGTON
December 1 1873

To the Speaker of the House of Representatives Washington D C—SIR In the course of the business connected with the settlement of the affairs of paying the unsettled claims of the late bureau of refugees freedmen and abandoned lands certain developments have been made which I deem it proper, under the circumstances to submit to the House of Representatives for such action as may appear to be right On the assumption of the duties by the Adjutant General under the act of Congress general nature No 130 approved June 10, 1872 and War Department general order No 30 1872 there was no reason to suppose that such developments would be made because no special search was made bearing upon them; but as complaint after complaint was received that claimants had not received from the late bureau their bounties arrears of pay etc they (the said complaints) were referred in the course of business to the Second Auditor, with whom rested all settlement and the final adjustment of accounts It gradually became apparent that vouchers to a considerable amount were filed as if paid and credits taken for amounts when strong proof was presented that the claimants had not been paid and in a similar manner developments embracing other subjects called for consideration From the incomplete and disorganized condition of the accounts of the late bureau when received by the Adjutant General and from the fact that an examination had to be made in two offices of the Treasury Department to arrive at the true condition of certain accounts and claims so much time elapsed that the trial of the late Commissioner by general court martial became barred in part under the statute of limitations before it was discovered that he was properly amenable to trial at all though it is true that he could have been brought before a military court on some specific charge yet for the reason that they would be more or less dependent on the transactions which are barred the trial would hardly be productive of public benefit and also for the reason that the honorable House of Representatives has already ordered and had an investigation by a committee upon the affairs of the Bureau of Refugees Freedmen and Abandoned Lands I have deemed it best not to give the case to a military tribunal but to submit the entire subject to the House of Representatives The Department of Justice however has been furnished with some cases and others are to follow of apparent malfeasance with a request either to institute a criminal suit or civil suit to recover moneys belonging to the United States or both suits as may be proper against such of the officers and agents of the late bureau as may be liable In this connection attention is invited to the correspondence with the Attorney General found herewith. The late Commissioner Brigadier General O O Howard United States army has been promptly informed of the absence of important records and of the apparent exhibits against him, with a view to his offering explanations and supplying the missing records. How far he has done this will appear by the correspondence printed in the reports In one item stated $121 000 not accounted for it will be seen that the account cannot be produced and no attempt has been made to prove what has become of the money accounts covering the amount in part or alleged to have existed but the disbursing officer George W Babcock has stated that as they were not considered of much importance they were not kept in the cases with other accounts The accounts have disappeared and it seems that neither the late commissioner nor the late disbursing officer can account for their disappearance This item is known as the Retained Bounty Fund As to the misapplication of public funds the records are in accordance, and these irregularities and violations of law seemingly have had much more to do with the confusion of the records than the defective condition and the almost entire suspension of work by the late bureau The responsibility and accountability attaching to the late Commissioner so far as now developed, amounts to upward of $278 673 66 and may be stated under the following headings First Claimed by colored claimants who allege that they have not been paid their pay and bounty, although the records of the Treasury Department show a settlement of the claims and vouchers have been filed by the late bureau as evidence of payment of $33 888 39, Second Defalcation of St Clair Mendeville $8 503 29 3 Defalcation of O C French reduced to $3 741 54 4 Defalcation of B P Runkle $673 24 5 Acknowledged by George W Ballarch to have been paid to B P Runkle to reimburse the latter for a mistake made by his agents in paying bounties to the wrong parties, $1 311 08 6 Due by the late bureau in consequence of illegal double payments and accrued interest, several thousand dollars 7 Irregular fund called Returned Bounty Fund under the act of March 2, 1867 not accounted for upwards of $121 000 8 Misapplication of public funds, and filing vouchers with the accounts covering a certain month when payments were made in a prior month $36 314 vouchers covering the time subsequent to the actual date of payment and therefore erroneous, $74 048 Total $278,499 The accompanying reports of the Adjutant General and of Inspector General Schriner, who made a critical examination of the records in verification of the Adjutant General's report point in detail to the transactions exhibited in the above summary I am sir with great respect your obedient servant

CITY.

Frightened—Not Hurt.—A man named J J McKay while on his way home last Thursday evening about 11 o'clock, was pursued by two persons to him unknown. Subsequently they turned out to be two worthless vagrants known as St Clair and McGowan. Rightly conjecturing that they were thieves McKay fled up Taylor street. Reaching Third he ran up to Madison. Finding himself still hotly pursued he turned down Madison and ran toward the river. When near Front street, McKay came past where officers Sloan and Corcoran were standing. These officers of course perceiving him running, naturally concluded that he was a thief endeavoring to make good his escape gave chase. McGowan and St Clair who were some distance away observed the officers and slunk quietly off, leaving McKay to make the most of the situation. He was too badly scared to discern the difference between the two thieves and officers and instead of stopping to explain he dashed ahead. Officer Corcoran gave valiant chase and as McKay did not stop when commanded to do so he fired his pistol at random which only frightened the poor fellow worse and made him accelerate his speed. He ran down Front to Main street and took refuge under the wharf when he was captured. Meantime, Sloan had given chase to McGowan and overhauled that worthy. Both McKay and McGowan were taken to jail the former completely exhausted breathless and frightened half to death. Here he told his story and was released at once. McGowan finding himself caught in a trap, denied that he and St Clair intended to rob McKay, but was only chasing him just to have some fun. His fun cost him ten days in the city jail.

Arrested on Suspicion.—Jack St Clair a well known vag of the city was arrested on Friday morning on a complaint issued from Justice Ryan's Court, charging him with larceny. He is supposed to be the thief who entered Justice Davis' office on Thursday broke open the lock of his drawer and took therefrom $10. Yesterday afternoon the case came up for examination before L W Ryan. At the conclusion of the testimony the Court took the matter under advisement until this morning.

Albany Express.—Commencing on Monday the express train heretofore running between this city and Salem, will extend its run to Albany. This will enable business men at that place Jefferson and points of less importance south of Salem, to make a trip to this city, arriving at an early hour and return the same evening. The Albany express promises to be a success.

Has Recovered.—We are gratified to be able to announce that Rev John Rosenberg, who has been suffering for some weeks from a severe attack of facial erysipelas has so far recovered that he will be able to officiate to-morrow at St. Stephen's Chapel. This will be very gratifying intelligence to his many friends and congregation.

Time Changed.—We are requested to state that the Childrens' Festival of the St David's Sunday School East Portland, will commence at 1 o'clock this afternoon. Heretofore the Festival was announced to commence at 3 30 P M. Children will please bear this change in mind.

The Book of Jonah.—This will be the subject of a lecture at the Unitarian Church to-morrow evening, at 7 30 o'clock, and serve as an illustration of true views of the Bible. The public are cordially invited and the seats of the church are at all times free.

Fifth Lecture.—The fifth lecture of the course to be delivered at the Congregational Church will be given on next Friday evening by Mr Syl C Simpson of Salem. His subject will be "The Death Penalty."

AMUSEMENTS.

Those desiring to enjoy a rich musical treat are requested to bear in mind the matinee performance to be given this afternoon by Vivian at Masonic Hall assisted by Madame Rieffarth, Madame Muse and G W Jester. A number of new songs are to be introduced on this occasion by Mr Vivian. Performance will begin at 2 o'clock. An entertainment will be given at the Hall this evening. A splendid programme will be offered. We shall expect to see a crowded house this afternoon and evening.

The Skating Rink promises unusual attractions this evening. There will be a hurdle race each contestant to pass around the Rink seven times, making a distance of over half a mile. Four hurdles will be placed on the floor, making in all twenty eight to jump. The race to be governed by the Hurdle Rules. A beautiful leather prize will be awarded to the last man in the race. Extra accommodations. Seats will be arranged for all. The following are the competitors: Charles Mead, Edward Tracy, Henry Thompson and Henry Burk.

RESOLUTIONS OF CONDOLENCE.

At a regular meeting of General Allen Engine Company No 3, of Vancouver held at their Hall on Tuesday evening January 6th, 1874 the following resolutions were adopted:

Whereas, Our late brother and Secretary, J C A Vohwinkle has met with an untimely death, therefore be it

Resolved, That while we bow with humble submission to the mournful dispensation of Divine Providence we should not forget that we too are mortal and may soon be called upon to enter on that journey whence no traveler returns.

Resolved, That in his death this Company has lost an able and efficient Secretary.

Resolved, That we deeply sympathize with the family of our deceased brother and as a token of esteem for his memory be it

Resolved, That a copy of these resolutions be given to the family of the deceased, a copy sent for publication to the Oregonian and Bulletin, and also placed on the minutes.

ENTERTAINMENT—MASONIC HALL.

No occasion of a similar character ever given in our city had the effect to draw a larger crowd of people together than were assembled at Masonic Hall last evening, to hear and witness the musical and literary entertainment given under the auspices of the Unitarian Church. In fact before the hour appointed for the commencement of the exercises the hall was completely filled every seat being taken and much of the standing room occupied and still the people were coming in crowds. At last the sale of tickets of admission ceased as no space could be found and a large number of persons went away without gaining an entrance.

When quiet could be restored and the rush for seats was partly over the programme was taken up and in each and every part was carried out in a manner reflecting credit on the managers and the ladies and gentlemen assuming the parts. Want of space prevents our giving the extended notice which the entertainment merits and we can only say that the instrumental music furnished by Mrs D P Smith the Messrs Frank and Hatch was appropriate well executed and won the praise of the audience. Dr Pilkington's rendition of "Skipper Ireson's Ride" was good and Mrs F E Eliot in the vocal solo, "Oh Ye Tears," sang with much taste and feeling and received the hearty plaudits of her listeners. "Only Three Grains of Corn" was read by little Miss Carrie Dalton in a manner which indicated a ready apprehension of the subject. She did well for a child of her years. The vocal duet by Mrs De Prans and Mr Franklin was excellent, as was the "Yarn of the Nancy Bell" by Julius Thielsen. Several songs of ye olden time were rendered by a choir of ladies and gentlemen en costume and served to bring down the house in immense and prolonged applause. The guitar duet by two gentlemen dressed as Spanish cavaliers evinced skill and greatly pleased those who heard it. The rendition of the "Lost Heir," a recitation by Julius Thielsen was a decided hit and loudly applauded. One of the finest and most stirring features of the evening was the recitation of "The Miser" by Mrs D P Smith. This lady evinced an ease and grace in her manner and the management of her voice seldom seen or heard among even professionals and an appreciation of her subject rarely exhibited by amateurs. She certainly has elocutionary talent of a high order, and her "Miser" deserved the very universal applause which it received.

The entertainment closed with "Auld Lang Syne" by the entire audience.

LIST OF JURORS.

According to the provisions of Section 921 of the Statutes of the State, the County Court, assisted by the County Clerk proceeded yesterday to draw the jury list for the present year. The section cited reads as follows: "The County Court shall at its first term of each year or in case of omission or neglect to do so then at any following term make from the last preceding assessment roll of the county, a list denominated the jury list containing the names of persons to serve as grand and trial jurors until the following year, or new lists be made out."

This list contains 100 names as required by law taken from the body of property holders in the county and will constitute the numbers from which the lists are to be drawn at each term of the Circuit Court. In examining the assessment roll the following persons were chosen:

CITY PRECINCT BOUNDARIES.

The statutes provide that the County Courts may when it is deemed expedient and necessary change the boundaries of, alter, abolish or create new precincts within the several counties of the State to accommodate the voters of the county and afford every opportunity for persons to cast their suffrages. The County Court of Multnomah has changed the boundaries of the several precincts within the municipal limits of this city at the State election [illegible] for a number of years past. In many instances some of the precincts have altogether been abolished, new ones created, while the boundaries of nearly all have undergone more or less changes. Under the old [illegible] system of voting it was found expedient to divide the city up into as many precincts as possible. This was necessary in order to accommodate the large number of voters as the old system of suffrage consumed a great deal of time. Now that the bill [illegible] has gone into effect by law of Congress, it is determined by the County Court of Multnomah to [illegible] the city. Formerly eight precincts were considered necessary in order to allow each voter an opportunity of depositing his ballot within the hours designated by law for the opening and closing of the polls. By the present system more than double the number of persons can vote in the same length of time than under the old [illegible]. This fact renders the redistricting of the precincts necessary. At the present term of the County Court it was determined to make material alterations in the existing boundaries of the several precincts. First all the boundaries were obliterated, the eight consolidated into one and from the entire city the boundaries of four were to be traced out.

Mr C W Burrage County Surveyor was requested to perform the required labor of redistricting the city of Portland. Yesterday he completed his work. As yet the result of his labors has not been submitted to the Court for action. The following is the proposed boundaries of the city as traced out by Mr Burrage. Unless good reasons can be shown the limits will doubtless be established by the Court as traced out on the plat.

Congressional Bombast.—Although the bombast of the past was wearisome it had its virtue in the patriotism by which it was usually inspired. This virtue gave it attraction, and there are few of our elders who have not been thrilled by the diffusive burning harangue of the stump but to our ears the wild cry of the bird of freedom has become a disagreeable squawk. After a while its voice got into the throats of the demagogues oftener than those of the true men, and thus it went out of fashion. Now when a man begins to talk about this great and glorious county, and her manifest destiny we suspect him of a scheme to obtain land grants or subventions for steamship lines—to extend the area of freedom. When he speaks of the sufferings of his community through the want of internal improvements we suspect him of a desire to get his hand into the meal bag and when he says he is ready to lay down his life on the altar of liberty our suspicions grow almost to convictions. If in addition to this, he invokes the name of his Maker as to the purity and patriotism of his motives our mind is made up.—Scribner's Monthly.

Rare bargains at B L Stone's jewelry store. Be sure to call this evening.

The retention of the same customers year after year is the highest commendation a business firm can receive. It proves that those who know the house best and who have the most frequently tested its merits are its firmest friends. This is true of BECK & WALDMAN where in addition to hosts of new customers, the faces of old friends are constantly to be seen. The goods have been marked down as the firm wish to close out to make room for Spring Stock.

Holidays over—B L Stone is offering a full assortment of jewelry at a reduction.

The Living Telegrapher.

Symptoms are the silent characters through which the diseased body telegraphs its condition. But they are not always read aright, and the medicines administered sometimes aggravate instead of relieving the complaint. Conspicuous among the instances of malpractice which are of daily occurrence is the habit of dosing dyspeptic and constipated invalids with powerful cathartics. Hostetter's Stomach Bitters in which are skillfully blended the vegetable elements best adapted to the invigoration of the stomach and removal without violence of regular discharges from the bowels should be taken twice or thrice a day as a remedy for indigestion of every type and for costiveness whether chronic or casual. No other medicine will be required and the cure will be rapid and painless. No medicine yet discovered or compounded equals Hostetter's Bitters as a specific for all affections of the liver as well as for diseases of the stomach the bowels and the nerves.

SATURDAY MORNING JANUARY 10 1874

THE GOLD CROSS

"You can hardly consider it a gift Maggie, because I shall split it in two, and keep half for myself"

George Wayland looked straight into Maggie Carroll's brown eyes as he spoke, and saw the sudden glow of love in them as they met for a second his ardent gaze and then hid under their blue veiled silken fringed lids

"I shall prize it highly George and the more from the fact that you wear one half while I wear the other"

"But will you wear it always under all circumstances"

"Always under all circumstances" she repeated merrily

He neatly severed the narrow thin cross and fastened one section to his watchchain and the other to the piece of narrow velvet Maggie had bought and that he tied for her around her white throat

"I like it better than a ring George" she said shyly "because every one knows who is engaged by just looking at their left hand"

"As if I wouldn't like every soul in Mea low side to know I had won you my shy brown eyed darling I am too proud and too happy——"

Maggie interrupted him, playfully

"Despite the visible jealousy of a certain lady who considers me a bold rival?"

"Despite even Cora Adrian's foolish jealousy while I feel several inches taller than poor Ned Morrison whom I did cut out unmercifully, didn't I?"

A little shadow passed over Maggie's face and instinctively she clung closer to her lover's arm

"Oh, George, I am actually afraid of Ned lately Only last night he said I'd be sorry yet that I refused him He's so morose and sullen since—since"

She blushed a little and George magnanimously helped her through

"Since I asked and was not refused by those sweet lips! Never mind Ned Maggie Naturally he feels jealous I would myself under reversed circumstances But all this has nothing to do with our promise to wear the little gold cross while we are separated for these three months that are so close at hand But Maggie my little girl if ever the time should come—mind, I have no idea it will—but if it should come, that you want to be released from me all you've to do is to send your half of the cross to me It will be the mute token of my misery"

But Maggie smiled up in his face cheerily

"If all the misery you ever anticipate comes by means of this little messenger" and she laid her hand lightly on the glittering trinket "rest assured you'll have little of it But, Sir Knight, suppose you weary of my colors? What then?"

He folded her tightly in his arms and kissed her

"As if I could ever change?"

So the two, in that blissful, painful parting that seemed ages to them renewed their vows The old old story, yet ever new

The cheerful rays of the astral lamp on the round, crimson covered table, beamed over Maggie Carroll's white fingers and flashed like a spark of liquid silver on her tiny thimble and polished needle as her hands flew gracefully over her work

She had cleared away the tea dishes, and her parents had gone to a friend's. Little Bessie lay sleeping on the lounge, with the light shaded from her eyes and Maggie with a garment she was making for one of her bridal outfits, had settled happily, cosily down to her evening's work, thinking, with every stitch she set, of George Wayland, by this time away out in Omaha where he would get a good many hundred dollars for putting the machinery in a new mill—money that would start them so nicely housekeeping

Maggie's pleasant reverie was dissipated by an impatient rap on the sitting room door followed, before she could unfasten her work from her knee, and go to the door and open it, by Ned Morrison

"Don't get up, Maggie I can find a chair for myself I've been here often enough to make myself at home havn't I? for all I don't appear to be particularly wanted"

Maggie's cheeks flamed at the insinuated want of hospitality, but she very pleasantly arose and placed a chair near the fire

"O no, Ned, you only imagine we don't want to see you Sit down Ain't you cold? Mother and father are gone"

"I don't care where they are gone, I came to see you and none but you"

He drew his chair away from the fire and near the table where Maggie sat

"Well, Ned, here I am for you to see"

She was determined not to allow her annoyance to escape her, so she assumed from the first a friendly cheery tone And it mollified Ned, as she intended it should

"I was a little rough on the old folks, Maggie; but the truth is since—since—you and that Wayland fellow have been such friends I see but precious little of you, any way"

Maggie could have bitten her tongue to have prevented the blush she felt surging over her face.

"I would naturally see more of my betrothed husband than merely a friend Ned please hand me the scissors"

She did not lift her eyes, but slipped her thread silently and went on sewing while Ned toyed with the scissors moodily Finally almost abruptly he spoke

"I'll get out and leave you in peace Maggie if you will give me one of your curls to remember you by"

Maggie smiled indulgently secretly so thankful at such a cheap release

"You may have any curl you want, Ned and welcome Only you must not take it as a pledge of banishment, Ned" And now Maggie laid down her sewing and looked into his moody, half scorned face "I wish for your sake, it had been as you so desire But as it is not, as I am so content, let it all be forgotten Which curl will you have?" She leaned her head towards him coquettishly and he, awkwardly, trembling cut one off close to her neck, so close the cold steel made her start

The moment he had severed it he threw down the scissors thrust the curl in his pocket in a wad, and arose from his chair

"I said I'd go Good bye, Maggie"

Almost before Maggie could recover from her surprise at his wild, abrupt way he was off, his footsteps ringing loud on the frozen ground

His eyes were brighter than usual and his face fairly worked with exultation as he drew the tangled black curl from his pocket and with it a band of black velvet, to which a tiny plain gold cross was attached

"Little did my lady know I cut the velvet with the curl and only begged the hair that I might secure the cross Little did the lovers—curse em—know I overheard their sugar-candy romance about the token of the cross but if George Wayland don't get this back before I'm a week older, it'll be strange I trust either of em for an explanation they're too plagued proud"

And Maggie went on with her sewing for another hour in blissful unconsciousness of the loss of her treasure Afterward she and Bessie had a game of romps before Bessie went finally to bed and still later—at half past nine—she and brother Ben went down to the last mail to see if there was a letter from George

It was not until she had retired to her own room, and stood before her dressing bureau to arrange her hair for the night that she missed it and then she missed it at the very first glance in the glass

It was down stairs of course on the floor where it had fallen when she and Bessie had their game of fun or, O suppose she had lost it on the street on the way to the Post-office It was very probable very and when she had crept softly down stairs lamp in hand and thoroughly searched the sitting room in vain she knew it was really lost on the street What would George say to her carelessness how could the velvet have come untied? and with a little fit of crying over her loss Maggie went to bed and dreamed of wading ankle deep through gold crosses

George Wayland on his way home from a hard day's work stopped at the Postoffice in the far off Western city for the long delayed letter from Maggie Carroll It had been a fortnight now since he had received the last and a worried sort of feeling took possession of him at the delay Was Maggie ill away from home—or—George hated himself for the ugly thought that more than once flitted unbidden across his mind—Morrison's heirship to a long disputed estate that Maggie could have changed her mind? Yes it was barely possible and that was all George decided and when the mail at last opened and the rush at the boxes was lessened somewhat and George actually saw there was one for him he felt it was very impossible

But he shook with surprise and sickness to see Ned Morrison's handwriting What was the news in the sealed envelope?

He tore it rudely open and wrapped in a tissue paper dropped in his trembling hands—Maggie's gold cross

Not a word only this mute sign—the very token he had suggested! How contemptuous the blank sheet of paper seemed to him and how utterly mocking did his name in Ned Morrison's handwriting appear So not only possible or probable that Maggie could throw him over but actually undeniably the fact that she had done so And he away out West with but one friend—his companion in labor Maggie's cousin Jim—and stinting to save money for Maggie's sake O was it any wonder George ground his teeth in a rage of grief He crushed his letter into his pocket and pushed his cap down on his eyes and strode on dumb from the blow never seeing never hearing Jim Carroll who had got a letter from home and having read it waiting to deliver messages to George

"What can ail the man" thought Jim wonderingly and he started after and stepped in some little hard object as he put his foot down He stooped and picked up the little gold cross

"George lost it off his watch chain, I suppose"

He put it in his pocket and went on, intending to overtake Wayland and give him his lost trinket. But by dint of fast walking maybe George was out of sight and Jim did not see him that night And on the morrow one of the hands gave him a penciled note from Wayland

"I've a little business to attend to further down for a week or so Keep things going on Back soon as I can G W"

Then when Jim started off on his day's work it suddenly occurred to him that as George would be away probably more than a week he would send his cross home to Maggie for safe keeping He knocked around so among the machinery that it might get broken or lost and he knew George prized it highly So—and the fates ordered it that he had no time to write a note—he thrust it into an envelope lying on George's desk already directed to Maggie and sent it on its ill omened message all unconscious of the mischief he was brewing

The long Winter had passed away—somehow or other that Maggie Carroll hardly knew how. It was enough for her that she had been very wretched and unutterably miserable since a day months past when without a word, or sign of warning she had received from George Wayland the cross he swore always to wear for her sake

Ned Morrison too had seemed so delighted when he learned—how such pitiful facts do leak but—that it was all over with Maggie and George, and full of pomposity and self importance over his inheritance had tormented Maggie half crazy to accept him

And now, when even his dull head had been made to know it was impossible, and he had transferred his attentions and affections to Amy Harrow, he was to be married, and George Wayland and Jim Carroll were coming home on the same night

Now it was sundown, and in an hour they would meet, for George was obliged to see Maggie's father on business at the earliest moment And so she dressed in the self same suit she had worn that night George had tied the velvet around her neck, a dark claret silk dress, and in a painful memory of that dear past fastened the cross in its old place George Wayland should see she had kept her word, if he had not She would let him know that though carelessness lost hers, still she would wear the one he returned, because she would be true to him no matter how false he was to her And so, when her father called her down from her room, she went with slow listless footsteps, and wildly throbbing heart that would not be still, to meet the man she loved so dearly, the man who had ceased to regard her almost as soon as he was out of her presence

She had heard his voice, so round and full and so sweet to her hungry ears before the door that stood ajar Ned Morrison to be married to night to little Amy Harrows! Why I thought—" and that very moment Maggie walked quietly in her face pale as death, her blue eyes burning like stars

"George, I am glad to see you How do you do?"

She extended her hand, and looked him frankly, freely in the eyes Why should she not? She had no qualms of conscience as he must have, and yet, how strange how very strange it was that he was markedly agitated Maggie had naturally supposed he would have been perfectly careless, utterly indifferent, and here he was actually trembling like a man with an ague

Had he been conscious smitten at sight of her loyalty flaunted so openly in the very face of his treachery? "Yes," Maggie was deciding "it was the cross that made" and then George's voice, this time low, intense, addressed her

"Maggie, can you explain away this sickening mystery? I find to my utter demoralization, that Ned is to be married, and not to you And yet the cross came to me in his handwriting"

All over Maggie's face flamed the red surges Her lost treasure found by Ned Morrison and sent—oh, so maliciously!—to George Wayland And then a giddy blinding rush of happiness almost choked her

"O, George! I lost it somehow somewhere I never knew. Did you think, really, I could have been so—so—"

Her tears welling thick and fast choked her

"But this cross Maggie that you have on?"

"It came in a blank letter one day two or three weeks after I got mine and I suppose you wanted to get rid of me You know what you said"

Wayland looked utterly thunderstricken

"I have mine at this moment I have been as true as steel See!"

He threw back his overcoat there was the tiny cross attached to his watch chain

"Oh George"

"Maggie, my own darling"

It was utterly incomprehensible to them, but they loved each other and what did they care?

That evening, when all the family, with the two guests were sitting around the fire Jim Carroll asked Maggie if she ever received the little cross he sent her, and then, it was plain as sunshine although none of them ever knew of Ned Morrison's theft nor in their new bliss ful happiness did they care

Wheat in Liverpool, by mail advices from San Francisco—Average California 13s 9d@13s 8d Club 13s 9d@13s 3d

There seems to be as yet no scheme devised by the Treasury doctors which is satisfactory to our Eastern exchanges for relieving the country from the financial dilemma in which it has become involved Congress seems inclined to weigh carefully all the measures proposed and it is to be hoped will arrive at wise conclusions A writer in the Chicago Journal of Commerce says

"There is a continual cry rising up on the one hand for the resumption of specie payments and on the other for more currency amounting almost to a clamor There is so much of reason in this that the public will not be satisfied till both are accomplished Neither could be done with prudence or safety without a wisely organized banking system Every system ever devised by human imagination has been tried in this country The operations and results of each are recorded in our history and all who will read may see and understand them

The establishment of a national bank with an adequate capital similar in principle to those in existence from 1791 to 1811 and from 1816 to 1836 as the fiscal agent of the Government and local joint stock banks under a general law of the States similar in principle to that of Massachusetts at the time of General Jackson's veto would accomplish these objects [illegible] This system did accomplish [illegible] with the derangement of trade industry or commerce but on the contrary inspired public confidence and imparted animation vigor and power to every branch of industrial enterprise as well as to private and public finances It so continued during the existence of this system and it would do so again

A national bank and well regulated local banks They together constitute [illegible] system [illegible] this country or [illegible] other country has ever enjoyed The [illegible] quires the aid of the other and can [illegible]

It may be averred without fear of refutation that the obligation of a bank with cash capital to redeem its bank bills on demand with its notes [illegible] go into liquidation and a clearing house or some institution to enforce this is proved the most effectual check to excessive and imprudent issues While each bank has the legal power to expand to the extent of prudence on the emergency which are periodically occurring in every community sufficient for the legitimate demands of each community the directors must use great circumspection not overstep these bounds by issuing large sums more than they can redeem at the clearing house

Crops and Tonnage Engagements.

Through the courtesy of S W Backus & Co we are in receipt of a circular containing valuable information in regard to the wheat crops and charters of vessels for the grain trade on this Coast from July 1st to Dec 31st 1873 inclusive From it we learn that the receipts of California wheat in the San Francisco market show a decline of over one million centals as compared with 1872 while those of flour show a gain of 111,000 bbls which when reduced to wheat show a total falling off of California product marketed of [illegible] centals [illegible] in the wheat receipts were [illegible] tons received from [illegible] Railroad

The receipts from [illegible] during the six months were [illegible] centals of wheat and [illegible] bbls of flour against 46,000 centals wheat and [illegible] bbls flour for the corresponding period in 1872 The receipts of [illegible] from Oregon were [illegible] centals [illegible]

The number of vessels [illegible] the most [illegible] kind of [illegible] to Cork, Falmouth [illegible] for Europe under charter [illegible] in San Francisco during the six months are given as follows

Lieut Maury [illegible] tons chartered to load wheat to Cork for orders to United Kingdom at £4 1s

Spirit of the Dawn [illegible] to load wheat [illegible] Liverpool at £4 [illegible]

Otago [illegible] tons wheat to Cork for orders to the United Kingdom at £4 1

Toftcomb [illegible] tons wheat to Cork for orders to the United Kingdom at £4 [illegible]

Fleur de Lis [illegible] tons wheat and flour to Liverpool at £4 [illegible]

Mary E Ray 558 tons wheat to Cork for orders to the United Kingdom at £4 12s 6d

Powhattan 400 tons wheat to Cork for orders to the United Kingdom at £4 10s or the continent of Europe £4 17s 6d

Nouveau St Michael, 452 tons wheat to Cork for orders to the United Kingdom at £4 10s

The same authority also comments on the market thus From September to December when ship owners had anticipated receiving £5 for Liverpool from San Francisco the ruling rates were £3 1s to £3—as low as £2 11s having been accepted in one case that of the ship Baltic This was a most serious disappointment to owners of tonnage and wherever vessels making for San Francisco could be reached either by mail or telegraph they were sent to other ports In the course of two months the tonnage on the way to ports on this coast of the United States fell off over 60,000 registered tons In December freights began to improve and on the 1st inst ships from San Francisco to Liverpool are worth £4 Wheat as a consequence has weakened and unless a very material rise should take place in Liverpool in January it is hardly probable that it will recover the ground lost as shipments made in February and March which must arrive off the English coast in the face of the new harvest can not be expected to realize as much money as those shipped earlier in the season

MEDICAL.

TO THE UNFORTUNATE.

NEW REMEDIES! NEW REMEDIES!

Dr. Gibbon's Dispensary,

623 KEARNEY STREET, NEAR COMMERCIAL, San Francisco Established in 1854 for the treatment of Sexual and Seminal Diseases such as Gonorrhea Gleet Stricture, Syphilis in all its forms Seminal Weakness Impotency etc Skin Diseases of years standing and Ulcerated Legs successfully treated

DR GIBBON has the pleasure of announcing that he has returned from visiting the principal Hospitals of Europe, and has resumed practice at his Dispensary 623 Kearney street corner of Commercial, San Francisco, where his old patients and those requiring his services may find him

The Doctor has spared neither time nor money in seeking out new remedies and has returned with increased facilities for the alleviation of human suffering

Horrible Diseases.

How many thousands of persons both male and female are there who are suffering out a miserable existence from the effects of secret indulgences, or from virus absorbed into the system Look at their pallid emaciated and disfigured faces and their broken down constitutions disqualifying them for the happiness of marriage or the enjoyment of life. In this horrid situation thousands suffer until death closes the scene Let parents guardians, friends, attend to those who are suffering with any of these horrible life-destroying maladies—see that they are cared for and cured before it be too late Send them immediately to DR. GIBBON a physician who has made private diseases his especial study for years, and who is certain to cure the most inveterate case, without mercury or any injurious drugs It is important to those who are afflicted, and to those who are interested in the welfare of the afflicted to be careful of the many pretended doctors who infest all cities publishing their skill in curing diseases in a few days imposing upon the public by using the names of eminent physicians from Europe and other places Be therefore careful and make strict inquiry or you may fall into the hands of these charlatans.

Seminal Weakness.

Seminal Emissions the consequence of self-abuse. This solitary vice or depraved sexual indulgence, is practiced by the youth of both sexes to an almost unlimited extent producing with unerring certainty, the following train of morbid symptoms unless combatted by scientific medical measures viz. Sallow countenance dark spots under the eyes pain in the head ringing in the ears noise like the rustling of leaves and rattling of chariots uneasiness about the loins, weakness of the limbs confused vision, blunted intellect loss of confidence diffidence in approaching strangers a dislike to form new acquaintances, disposition to shun society loss of memory hectic flushes, pimples and various eruptions about the face furred tongue fetid breath coughs consumption, night sweats monomania and frequent insanity If relief be not obtained should apply immediately either in person or by letter and have a cure effected by his new and scientific mode of treating this disease, which never fails of effecting a quick and radical cure Dr G will give One Hundred Dollars to any person who will prove satisfactorily to him that he was cured of this complaint by either of the San Francisco quacks.

Married Men,

Or those who contemplate marriage who are suffering under any of these fearful maladies should not forget the sacred responsibility resting upon them nor delay to obtain immediate relief

DR. GIBBON is responsible and will give to each patient a written instrument binding himself to effect a radical and permanent cure or make no charge.

Cured at Home.

Persons at a distance may be CURED AT HOME by addressing a letter to Dr Gibbon stating case, symptoms length of time the disease has continued, and have medicines promptly forwarded free from damage and curiosity, to any part of the country, with full and plain directions By inclosing Ten Dollars coin in registered letter through the Post-office or through Wells Fargo & Co a package of medicine will be forwarded to any part of the Union. All communications strictly confidential.

Caution to the Unfortunate

Beware of the San Francisco quacks and pretenders who with bogus sworn to certificates, dupe the unwary Some of the self-styled doctors, whose names are to be found in the daily and weekly newspapers of San Francisco and other places, are tradesmen and became too lazy to work at their trades Some are tinsmiths shoemakers newspaper carriers intelligence office keepers etc The only way to avoid imposition is to make inquiry—it will cost you nothing and may save you many regrets, for as advertising physicians in eight cases out of ten are bogus there is no safety in trusting any of them until you know who and what they are. Dr. Gibbon does not deceive people by exhibiting any titles certificates pretended patients letters, etc. Dr Gibbon will satisfy persons who may call at his office of his ability to treat diseases that he professes to cure.

Address DR. J F GIBBON 623 Kearney street, corner Commercial, San Francisco, Post Office Box 1,957

REMEMBER TO PUT BOX 1,957 ON THE LETTER. Consultations FREE.

☞ Correspondents will please inform DR. GIBBON that they read his advertisement in the DAILY OREGONIAN jy6d6p
